Tailored Teaching

We can arrange customised courses to meet your individual requirements.

Examples in the past have ranged from part of a full RYA course to much more specific requirements. A recent example is a Basic Navigation course for a local club built around the charts for Salcombe Harbour and its surrounding waters.

Our goal is to teach you at the level that meets your requirements and objectives. Recent examples have included a requirement that 'I want to know enough to support my husband and get us home in an emergency', a passage planning refresher prior to a Yachtmaster practical assessment and a series of 'catch up' sessions for someone who had missed part of his RYA evening course.

If you are studying a correspondence course it is quite common to find that you really could do with help. Most people find some parts of any course harder than others. Here's where we can help because we can focus our time on the topic that you want covered and help you to move forward.

The great advantage of this sort of teaching is that it can proceed at your pace, build from what you know and cover the material that you want

Our current charges are shown on our website www.devnav.co.uk.

- A 'day' consists of two approximately three hour teaching sessions. Experience shows that this is the productive learning time for most people.
- The cost includes handouts where applicable and assumes teaching at our premises.

If you would prefer us to teach at your address and you have suitable facilities we can do so. We charge car travel at 40p per mile. All other travel related costs such as train fares, parking and ferries are charged at cost. Where travel time would normally be expected to exceed one hour we may charge travel time pro rata.

We would be pleased to discuss your requirements with a view to organising tuition to meet your needs and timescale.
